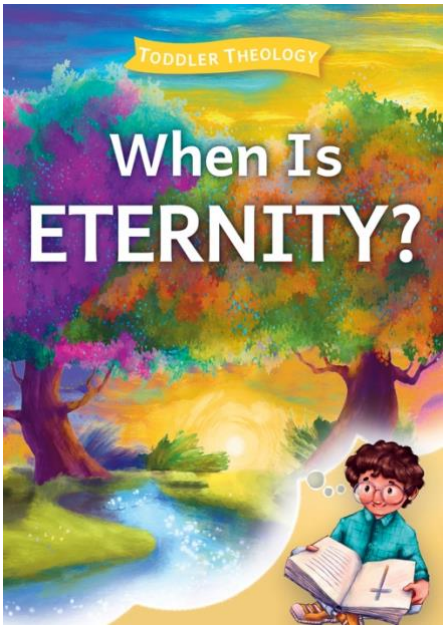
‘Toddler Theology’ board book series equip parents to teach biblical truth

BRENTWOOD, Tenn., Feb. 10, 2026 —B&H Kids author Lauren Groves has released the last two titles in her Toddler Theology series, “Where is Church?” and “When Is Eternity?,” written to equip parents and church leaders in teaching foundational Christian beliefs to young children.

“These six books have been a labor of love,” said Groves, who also serves as an editor for B&H Publishing. “They were born out of watching my daughter Eden’s little mind drink up catechism questions when she was two years old, and they have cemented this kind of learning in our family as a good and incredibly helpful discipleship tool.”

Designed for ages birth to 4, the Toddler Theology board books help parents introduce Christian theology in a way that’s engaging and easy to understand. Each book uses a question-and-answer format and beautiful illustrations from Alice Samuel to explain biblical concepts. Previous titles in the series include “Who is God?,” “What’s the Good News?,” “How Big Is Grace?” and “Why Do We Pray?.”



“Theology does not have to be big and scary,” said Groves. “It starts with the simplest questions. I pray these books give kids the freedom to ask big questions and know that there is a God who cares enough to give big answers.”
